Physics without Borders

More than ever, high-energy physics depends on international collaboration. Fermilab contributes to physics around the world: the Large Hadron Collider at CERN; the Pierre Auger Project in Argentina; the TESLA collaboration in Germany; and a computer grid to connect experimenters across the globe.